I purchased a used Honda BF2 which looks to be a great motor. The seller started the engine after about 6 or 7 pulls and I started it last night but after about 10-15 pulls which leads me to think the carb needs cleaning. I have been advised to get a Honda carb repair kit and attempt to do it myself. Not being a mechanic is this something a lay person can do assuming they take their time or am ...

Find Honda Outboard Parts. To find the Honda marine parts that will fit your motor you will need your outboard's model identification number. The ID number is stamped on a plate that is affixed beside or directly to the motor's stern bracket. If the plate is missing or you can't locate it you can use the Reference Chart you can see on this page.

Re: Honda 2hp BF2D oil leak The most common oil leak cause with this engine is overfilling. Oil level should be half way up the sightglass with the engine level and at rest for several minutes or better ,not yet run at all. The threads on the filler cap can get striped if you are'nt carefull about things feeling right going back on. Once oil gets down onto those air passages it is hard to get rid ...
